23.020While the employee handbook is broad in scope, it is not expected to completely cover every employment situation that can arise.

23.030Review and Revisions. The procedures and practices noted in the manual are subject to modification and further development in the light of experience, legal requirements and changing business conditions. Accordingly, the City of Sarcoxie reserves the right with or without notice to change, add to, or delete any of the policies and procedures, terms, conditions, and language presented in this manual. Such proposed modifications are subject to review and approval by the Board of Aldermen before being implemented. Any such revisions will be given to employees at the time of implementation. Should any provision in this manual be found to be unenforceable and invalid, such finding will not invalidate the entire manual, but only the subject provision.
